OVERVIEW

Crown Metropol redefines style as Melbourne's most striking and sophisticated hotel. This urban oasis combines modern accommodation with contemporary service. The younger sibling of Crown Towers and Crown Promenade, the bold, distinctive, and aesthetically appealing Crown Metropol which opened its doors in 2010 was designed by Bates Smart and has been described as an architectural feat for Melbourne's landscape.

With 658 rooms, Crown Metropol Melbourne is one of Australia's largest hotels, yet the wave-shape design of the building cleverly creates a boutique hotel feel. As guests enter the lobby, the personality of the hotel resonates — from the giant decorative timber balls to the impressive ribbon staircase, the hotel is beguiling, tactile, inviting and warm.

Located on the corner of Whiteman and Clarendon Streets in Southbank, Crown Metropol is a ten minute walk to the CBD and is conveniently joined to the wider Crown Melbourne complex via an undercover sky bridge.

GUEST ROOMS

No matter which room type guests choose they can expect high-tech urban glamour meets functionality with a bold yet quietly distinctive use of design. Sleek, white interiors are contrasted by use of metal, wood and stone, warm orange-hued earth toned carpeting, black oak panelling and a feature wall that defines each contemporary bedroom. European mid-century inspired mod furnishings, art and fittings are complemented with textured fabric sliding screens used to separate the ensuite and stone and bevelled glass bathroom.
