

MEDIA RELEASE

SNAKES, DRAGONS, LIONS AND FIREWORKS TO LIGHT UP THE RIVERWALK AT CROWN'S CHINESE NEW YEAR FESTIVAL

Crown's Chinese New Year Festival celebrates the Year of the Snake

Melbourne, Australia. January 2013. Crown's Chinese New Year Festival and Riverwalk Hawker's Bazaar has become an annual tradition in Melbourne's Lunar New Year celebrations. Now in its eleventh year, the festival has expanded its offering and still attracts over 100,000 visitors per day filling the Crown Riverwalk from Friday 8 February until Sunday 10 February from 11am until 11pm, daily. Admission is free.

This year a spectacular fireworks display will take place on Sunday 10 February from 10.45pm along the Yarra River in front of Crown. Fireworks are customary to Chinese New Year folklore as they are believed to ward off evil spirits.

To celebrate the Year of the Snake, Crown Riverwalk will feature a series of activities and entertainment including cooking demonstrations, 45 food and market style stalls, a host of cultural activities, exhibitions and live entertainment including roving and interactive performances.

The Year of the Snake is associated with beauty and wisdom, esoteric knowledge and spiritual discovery. Indulge all the senses and sample the traditional delicacies for the entire family including the traditional Prosperity Salad, the popular Durian ice-cream and the array of authentic Asian culinary delights that leave guests spoilt for choice.

Entertainment for the entire family across the weekend includes karaoke, an interactive petting zoo and traditional song and dance. Not to be missed is the spectacular dragon and lion processions which take place throughout the event starting at the Atrium and traversing the festival from Queensbridge Road through to Spencer Street. According to Chinese legend, the dragon is the ruler of the sky and water, and holds the highest position amongst all the animals, whilst the lions serve as its protector. The ceremonial dances serve to ward off evil spirits through the thunderous sound of loud drums and firecrackers.

Crown's Atrium will be transformed with an elaborate Chinese aerial structure, clustered with delicate spring flowers, lucky charms, firecrackers and stunning internally lit lanterns. To commemorate the Year of The Snake, Crown has added to the Atrium decorative display, a 30-metre gold snake hand cut in perforated floral motifs symbolising nature's beauty and surrounded by eight lucky gold coins. The Chinese New Year Atrium Display featuring the gold snake and will run from 31 January – 24 February 2013.

MEDIA RELEASE

Page 2 of 2

For further information, including event and performance times, please visit www.crownmelbourne.com.au

What:	Crown's Chinese New Year Festival
Where:	Crown Riverwalk- spanning from Queensbridge Road through to Spencer Street
When:	Hawker's Bazaar - Friday 8 February until Sunday 10 February, from 11am until 11pm, daily Atrium display - 31 January - 24 February 2013
Admission:	Free
Details:	www.crownmelbourne.com.au

For further information or media access for filming and photography please contact:

Jodi Crocker
Media Relations Manager
Crown Entertainment Complex
03 9292 8672 / 0403 026 600
jodic@crownmelbourne.com.au

Ann Peacock
General Manager - Public Relations
Crown Entertainment Complex
03 9292 8607 / 0412 334 614
annp@crownmelbourne.com.au

